INTRODUCTION

Welcome to George Sand Country

Take a break in this land of traditions, tales and legends, dear to George Sand, the kind godmother of the Berry region. Like a real travel book, this guide will show you the heritage, leisure activities, arts and crafts and gastronomy which make up the richness of this hilly country. Located between the Paris basin and the first foothills of the Auvergne, the south-eastern portion of the department of Indre offers a perfect geological and architectural diversity. Villages give a lively touch to small valleys and light up the hedged farmland with their roofs and bell towers.

George Sand, «the good lady of Nohant», liked to call it «The Black Valley»: «...all the uplands are wooded; that's what gives our background this lovely bluish colour which becomes purple and nearly black on stormy days». Upon the different stages of your stay, you will find the remembrance of this committed women thanks to the many sites which served as settings in her novels.

«if you come round, bon voyage! if you stay, good for you!»

GEORGE SAND'S HOUSE ■

NOHANT - OUTSTANDING GARDEN

A refuge and a source of inspiration. George Sand grew up here and it is where she wrote most of her work: La petite Fadette, La Mare au Diable, and so on. Many famous guests came to work here including Liszt, Balzac, Chopin, Flaubert, Delacroix, and others.

A delightful garden. The garden laid out around the house shows how attached George Sand was to nature. It includes a vegetable garden, rose garden, orchard meadow, Romantic park and the family cemetery where she was buried.

THE COMICAL WORLD OF JACQUES TATI ■

HOUSE OF «JOUR DE FÊTE» IN SAINTE-SÉVÈRE-SUR-INDRE

This house takes you back in 1947 to the village of Sainte-Sévère, transformed at the time by the arrival of a film crew for the shooting of «Jour de Fête» by Jacques Tati. Visitors will go over the event through the look of a child who retained the shooting memories by filming them with a coffee mill. To be seen with family, 3D projections, film set, sounds, special effects! 70 minutes of laughter and thrills.

MUSEUMS

MAISON DES TRADITIONS ■

CHASSIGNOLLES

The village of Chassignolles, from yesterday til today, is described by the British writer Gillian Tindall in his book entitled «Celestine: voices from a French Village». This chronicle of a village will lead you into the Chassignolles of the 19th century, at the doorstep of the Industrial Era. The traditional farm from «Boischaut Sud» encounters the peasants' lifestyle in the past century. The peasants' labour and their daily life are to be discovered on an exhibition space of over 1000 square metres through the re-creation of the cooper, blacksmith, clog maker's workshops. The museum also owns a fine set of agricultural machines which shows the development of land practices in the 19th and 20th centuries.

ANGIBAUT MILL ■

MONTIPOURET

It's countryside setting includes a seven hectare meadow, through which runs the Vauvre. This river, which flows into the Indre, feeds the millstream which turns the mill's water wheel. Inside, you can see the whole mechanism lovingly restored, as well as an exhibition on the life of a miller. This is the actual mill where George Sand's novel Le Meunier d'Angibault⁽¹⁾ is set. Activities, picnic area, excellent fishing, hall and facilities for country fairs.

LYS SAINT GEORGES □

George Sand wrote of this tiny picturesque village: «a poetic parish in sublime surroundings». Walking through the village, you will see the 14th and 16th century castle, «where Ludovic Sforza languished 80 months» The Black Valley by George Sand, the church of Saint Léger (13th and 15th centuries), the Parliament House, and a stall for shoeing oxen. On the road to Neuvi, you will see a charming tiny leper chapel (13th century).

LA CHÂTRE □

A TOWN WITH THE LABEL

«VILLE ET MÉTIERS D'ART»

Ebbes VI, youngest son of Raoul de Deols, Lord of Châteauroux/Cistercian monks settle along the river Indre and initiate economic development with the construction of mills. Located in a cattle-breeding region watered by the river Indre, the town, by the Middle Ages, already possessed numerous tanneries, and a district is still so named today. La Châtre is a dynamic city with more than 4700 inhabitants. Since 1996, La Châtre is setting up craftsmen shops in its ancient area. While striding the historical route of the town, you will discover the expertise of glass-makers, ceramists, hurdy-gurdy maker, leather workers,...

SAINTE SÉVÈRE □

A VILLAGE HIGHLIGHTED BY JACQUES TATI

During the 13th century, the fort, of which only the ruined keep and the ramparts surrounding the town remain, was an advanced citadel of the Province of Berry, on the frontier with Limousin. The hundred years war saw the town taken by the English and liberated by Duguesclin, a royal constable, after a famous siege in 1372. You enter the town via the drawbridge gate (15th century) and emerge onto the market square with its covered market dating from 1696, and its calvary built in 17th century. This is the same market square which features in Jaques Tati's 1947 film Jour de Fête. George Sand set the action of her novel Mauprat in this village.

RELIGIOUS HERITAGE

BASILICA OF NEUVY ST SÉPULCHRE

INSCRIBED ON THE UNESCO'S WORLD HERITAGE LIST

Neuvy owes its name to the basilica built there during the 11th and 12th centuries on the model of the Holy Sepulchre Church in Jerusalem. This Church is on the way to Saint James of Compostela. Moreover, in 1257, Cardinal Eudes, Papal legate, gave three drops of the precious blood of Christ to the church, which began a tradition of pilgrimage to the basilica on easter monday. During the summer there is an exhibition in the rotunda.

CHURCH OF SAINT ANNE

NOHANT

Built in the 12th and 13th centuries, this church owes its fame in part to the proximity of George Sand's house. However, its picturesque style which is completed by a 'guenillière'⁽¹⁾, means it is interesting in its own right. It also houses carved stone capitals and some traces of frescoes.

CHURCH OF SAINT LAURENT

LOUROUER SAINT LAURENT

Built during the 12th and 13th centuries, and restored during the 15th and 16th centuries, the church of Saint Laurent was classified as an historical monument following the discovery of its frescoes in 1987.

VARENNES CISTERCIAN ABBEY

SAINT MARTIN'S CHURCH

VIC

Its frescoes from the 12th century were discovered under several layers of whitewash by the Abbé Périgaud in 1849. George Sand intervened by getting the appropriate government ministry involved, and after a report by Prosper Mérimée (writer and friend of George Sand), the church was very quickly made a listed historical monument.

FARM PRODUCE

Here are breeders, growers, cheese producers ... and they are ready to open the doors of their farms to us ! Come and discover the work they do and share in their passion for quality products with a great taste.

A COMPREHENSIVE LIST OF FARMERS IS AVAILABLE IN THE TOURIST BUREAUX

LE PANIER BERRICHON

A set of farm products worked out by local farmers who are anxious to develop an agriculture of quality. Available in tourist spots of the Pays de George Sand : Tourism information centre in La Châtre, the Musée des Traditions in Chassignolles, the Angibault Mill in Montipouret... For further information or for your orders, please contact the Association for the agriculture and rural development (ADAR) at the following number : 02.54.48.08.82

Discover a typical recipe of our region : the «pâté de Pâques» (Easter Pie) on www.pays-george-sand.com, under the heading «local crafts and produce» - «recipe».
